RADON GAS AND OTHER ENVIRONMENTAL RISKS

Radon is a naturally occurring radioactive gas that, when it has accumulated in a building in sufficient quantities, may present health risks to persons who are exposed to it over time. Levels of radon that exceed Federal and State guidelines have been found in buildings in Florida. Additional information regarding radon and radon testing may be obtained from county public health units. Some other common hazardous substances found in existing housing are asbestos, lead, urea formaldehyde foam insulation, mold and Chinese drywall. Most buildings built before 1950 contain lead in existing paint and plaster, almost half of those buildings built between 1950 and 1980 contain lead in existing paint. In buildings built between 1982 and 1988 the tap water may contain lead from solder used for plumbing pipes. Lead is poisonous if consumed. Lead contamination may occur by eating lead paint chips, by breathing lead dust from plaster and paint and by drinking contaminated water. If lead contaminated products are present in the building, precautions should be taken to reduce risk of lead poisoning especially if any occupant is pregnant or young; and if any renovations are contemplated. Risk of drinking water contamination from environmental sources is also possible, if water source is supplied to the property by a private well. Mold is part of the natural environment that, when accumulated in sufficient quantities, may present health risks to susceptible persons Properties that have had water penetration are susceptible to mold contamination. Additional information regarding lead and other environmental risks may be obtained from any public health unit, from the Department of Veteran Affairs or from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Every Buyer of any interest in residential real property on which the residential dwelling was built prior to 1978 is notified that such property may present exposure to lead from lead-based paint that may place young children at risk of developing lead poisoning. Lead poisoning in young children may produce permanent neurological damage, including learning disabilities, reduced intelligence quotient, behavioral problems, and impaired memory. Lead poisoning also poses a particular risk to pregnant women. The Owner of any interest in residential real property is required to provide the Buyer with any information on lead-based paint hazards from risk assessments or inspections in the Owner's possession and notify the Buyer of any known lead- based paint hazards. A risk assessment or inspection for possible lead-based paint hazards is recommended prior to purchase or lease.

PROPERTY TAX DISCLOSURE SUMMARY

BUYER SHOULD NOT RELY ON THE SELLER'S CURRENT PROPERTY TAXES AS THE AMOUNT OF PROPERTY TAXES THAT THE BUYER MAY BE OBLIGATED TO PAY IN THE YEAR SUBSEQUENT TO PURCHASE.
